NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC TAPS EMMY AWARD-WINNING 'TRIP SISTERS' AS DIGITAL CONTRIBUTORS

CHICAGO – Colleen Kelly and Catie Keogh, Emmy Award-winning and Emmy Award-nominated travel experts and co-creators and co-hosts of “Trip Sisters with Colleen and Catie” are thrilled to announce a new partnership with National Geographic.

Since its inception nearly 130 years ago, the core purpose of National Geographic has been to further knowledge and awareness of the world. Today, National Geographic is the world’s leading multimedia destination for the best stories in science, exploration and adventure, featuring over 350 million fans/followers globally across all platforms, including nearly 190 million followers on Facebook and more than six million subscribers on YouTube.

“We share National Geographic’s passion for exploration and are thrilled to bring our unique brand of travel to their global audiences on social media,” said Colleen.

“Trip Sisters” content will premiere on National Geographic’s Facebook and YouTube channels beginning this month and will feature a variety of exciting destinations, including the Bahamas, the Caribbean, Iceland and Ireland.

“Our trips cater to all types of travelers, and we aim to inspire everyone with travel that is full of fun and learning,” said Catie. “We are honored to join National Geographic and look forward to connecting their viewers with the best of travel.”

ABOUT “TRIP SISTERS WITH COLLEEN AND CATIE”
